Trout Haven News

On January 28, 2012 we were excited to be able to help out the Florissant Fire Dept. in their "Ice Rescue Training". They did their training at Evergreen Lake and it was an honor to have them here .

Ice Rescue Tips

If you fall through the ice:

"The trick is to survive the first five minutes. You must stay calm, cool and collected."

- Don't panic. Staying calm and collected will help keep your blood pressure down.
- You want to keep your mouth and nose covered and recirculate the air you've been breathing or you'll lose too much carbon dioxide and get weak with cramps.
- If possible, lower your head and kick your feet, trying to pull your weight onto the ice.
- If you're unable to pull yourself out, keep your hands on the shelf of ice closest to you. If you feel like you're losing consciousness, keep your head on the ice. Falling backwards will make you go down.
- The safest trick is to stay as still as possible until help arrives.

If you see someone fall through the ice:

"It takes a lot of courage to stay on the shore."

- Stay on shore and call 911.
- From safe ground, try to talk them out of the hole. Tell them to keep their face to the ice and kick their feet up and pull forward. If that's not working, stick something on the ground, like your sunglasses or a pen, that will mark their spot for rescuers to find them easily. Then find a site where you can see if they sink to give an estimate to crews when they arrive.
- Next, try to grab anything that will help them pull themselves out, like a screwdriver, tire iron, or jumper cables, that will work like an ice pick.
- Keep talking to them the entire time. Ask what their name is and if they are alone. Rescuers will want to make sure the victim wasn't trying to save someone else.
- If a child falls through the ice, you're going to fall in too. You might actually break the ice that's supporting the child.

The safest way to keep the rescue crew from having to save two people, is to stay on the shore and help from there.

Special thanks to the Florissant Fire Dept for these life saving tips!

Ice Fishing Report

On your mark...get set ... GO Fishing

The 2012 Winter Ice Fishing contest has begun and we are seeing some very stiff competition out here on the resort!

"A healthy 18 1/2 in. rainbow trout (2 1/2lbs).
It could not resist my silver kastmaster I was using at Sun Lake ."
Thank you, Matt Spoden

Remember... Email us a picture with which lake you caught your trophy fish along with weight and measurements. Winners will be announced on May 19, 2012 at the Members Meeting !

As a reminder, there is a rental fee of $10.00 per hour, to use our auger. Just stop by the office and fill out the release form. If you would like us to drill a hole for you, we do ask that you call us at least a day ahead and tell us what lake, and we will have it set for you when you arrive. As a reminder, please fill out a fish report for all the fish that you catch & keep.

We will keep you updated!
